

5-8-1989

Monitor Newsletter May 08, 1989

Bowling Green State University

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/monitor>

---

Recommended Citation

Bowling Green State University, "Monitor Newsletter May 08, 1989" (1989). Monitor. 968.
<https://scholarworks.bgsu.edu/monitor/968>

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the University Publications at ScholarWorks@BGSU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Monitor by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks@BGSU.

Monitor

Vol. XII., No. 41

Bowling Green State University

May 8, 1989

USG presents annual awards to faculty, staff

An administrator, several faculty members and a student are this year's recipients of the Undergraduate Student Government's highest awards.

Dr. Peter M. Hutchinson, associate vice president for academic affairs, received the William T. Jerome Award. The Hollis A. Moore Awards for outstanding service to the University community were presented to Lt. Col. Jon A. Bisher, aerospace studies, and Karen Knirmschild, a senior from Cleveland majoring in elementary education, behavior disorders and learning disabilities.

Faculty Excellence Awards were presented to Dr. Chan Hahn, management; Dr. John Sampen, musical arts; Dr. Malcolm B. Campbell, educational foundations and inquiry; Laurie Bell, HPER; Dr. George R. Horton, visual communication and technical education; and Dr. Richard L. Weaver, interpersonal and public communication.

Established in honor of the University's sixth president, the Jerome Award recognizes administrators for their contributions to the welfare and betterment of students.

Hutchinson, this year's winner, has served as associate vice president for academic affairs for the past year. In this post he oversees several academic programs including the Center for Academic Options, the Honors Program and the Office of Academic Enhancement.

Hutchinson previously was associate dean in the College of Business Administration.

The Moore award is named after the University's seventh president who held the school's top post from 1970 until his death in 1981.

As chair of the aerospace studies department and commander of the Air Force ROTC detachment, Bisher, who received the Moore faculty award, is responsible for the recruitment, training and commissioning of officer candidates. He is active in the community as both a guest speaker and as a member of several organizations. Bisher also serves on a variety of University committees.

Knirmschild, winner of the undergraduate Moore Service Award, has worked as a resident adviser for three years. She has also volunteered for the Special Olympics and the Children's Resource Center in Bowling Green. In addition to the USG award, Knirmschild was recently presented with the Mary H. Briggs Memorial Scholarship for academic excellence from the Cleveland chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, a professional sorority for women in education.

The student government's Faculty Excellence Awards were presented to a faculty member from each of the University's six undergraduate colleges.

Hahn, who joined the University in 1970 and served as chair of the management department for 13 years, was in 1988 awarded the University's first endowed professorship by the Owens-Illinois Corporation.

Sampen, who is considered one of this country's leading young concert saxophonists, has won numerous awards and competitions.

Weaver is the author of 10 books, including a textbook on interpersonal communication which recently had its fourth edition published.

Continued on back

Three staff members were honored last week when they were selected for the Outstanding Student Affairs Awards. Receiving awards were Beth Adler (from left), a graduate student in student activities and orientation; Roman Carek, administrative staff, Counseling and Career Development Center; and Connie Hunt, classified staff, placement services. Not pictured is Yolinda Pierce, a data entry operator in minority affairs, who won the Vice President's Award.

Bandy receives Bryan Award

Medici Circle recognizes friends

The Medici Circle, a group of friends and patrons of the school, presented II Magnifico awards to Ralph Warren, Harold Hasselschwert, David Baldwin, David Cayton and Robert McGeein for their support of the School of Art. In addition, the annual Dorothy Uber Bryan Award was presented to Ron F. Bandy.

Warren, art, was presented an II Magnifico for special service in recognition of his contributions as chair of the program planning committee for a new addition to the Fine Arts Building.

Hasselschwert received the award for outstanding and special long-time achievement in the School of Art. The art professor was cited for his dedication to the school and its students, his ongoing research and the high quality of his students' work.

Baldwin, art, received the II Magnifico for outstanding teaching and was particularly recognized for his work in developing the new curriculum in environmental design studies.

The II Magnifico award for overall excellence in teaching, research and service went to Cayton, art.

An II Magnifico award for outstanding support and service to the School of Art also went to McGeein, assistant vice president for operations and director of capital planning, for his leadership and commitment to construction of an addition to the Fine Arts Building.

Each II Magnifico winner received an original framed photograph by Lynn Whitney of the School of Art faculty.

The Bryan Award, named in honor of Medici Circle founder and first president Dorothy Bryan, recognizes a member of the art faculty for outstanding service to students. As this year's winner, Bandy received a $400 cash prize.

All of the awards were presented at the Medici Circle's Primavera Gala.

In addition to the awards presentation, two

Continued on back

Hyslop honored as Ohio educator

Dr. David Hyslop, chair of the business education department, is the 1989 Ohio Educator of the Year, presented by the Ohio Business Teachers Association. The award recognizes professional accomplishments and teaching effectiveness.

He received the award at the annual Ohio Business Teachers Association Convention in Columbus last month.

Hyslop joined the University in 1973 after receiving his bachelor's, master of business administration and doctoral degrees from Michigan State University. He previously taught at Michigan State University and California State University.

David Hyslop

An active writer, he has published articles in the areas of business communications and administrative management, and co-authored a text in 1982 on records management. In addition, he has served on numerous University committees, is a member of nine professional organizations and has worked with more than 100 business organizations.

Hyslop also is active in a number of community organizations and has served as president of the Bowling Green Kiwanis Club. He will be directing the University's United Way campaign this fall.

Third edition of book released

Sociologists update sports book

Equipment, game rules and playing fields are what most people associate with sports. But academically, sport has been studied in sociology as it relates to popular culture, child development, leisure and recreation, even American studies.

With the third edition of their sociology textbook, entitled Social Aspects of Sport, Dr. Eldon Snyder and Dr. Elmer Spreitzer, both sociology, expand their previous coverage of the multi-dimensional nature of sport with their ongoing teaching and research on the topic.

As equally broad as the book's coverage are the audiences whom Snyder and Spreitzer address. Coaches, sportswriters, students and sports administrators alike are targeted by specific information from the authors.

Besides the academic approach, Snyder and Spreitzer explain the influence of sport in society at large.

Comments like "He has all the moves," or "Sport builds character," or "Female athletes are Amazons" represent various sport-related cliches which develop false assumptions the authors address in the book.

The authors report in the book that because sport is a major phenomenon in modern society, one might speculate as to why it has only recently been approached as a legitimate area to study by social scientists. "Perhaps one answer to this question lies in the assumption that sport was primarily meant to be physical rather than social interaction and was thus devoid of interest to social scientists," they said. "Another explanation for the late entry of social scientists into the analysis of sport may be that the world of sport is often perceived in terms of illusion and fantasy, as a sphere apart from the 'real world'."

Spreitzer and Snyder began working together in 1971, and have since published three books, 38 journal articles, and presented papers at conventions from Canada to Spain.

Snyder and Spreitzer joined the University in 1964 and 1975, respectively, and both have individually published numerous other articles by themselves and with other scholars. --Rebecca Stevens

Eldon Snyder

Elmer Spreitzer

Return pledge cards

Administrative staff who are interested in donating to the administrative staff scholarship fund are reminded to return their pledge cards by May 26.

The cards indicating the donation can be sent directly to Carl Peschel, c/o Administrative Staff Scholarship, alumni and development, Mileti Alumni Center.

The goal of the pledge drive is to collect $2,500 that will put the total corpus of the scholarship in excess of $16,000. If each administrative staff member contributes a minimum of $10, the goal easily can be met.

Contributions may be made in the form of a payroll deduction which can be indicated on the pledge card. The payroll deduction may be a one-time deduction, spaced across several months or an ongoing deduction.

This year Administrative Staff Council was able to award an $800 scholarship to Karen S. Phillips, an elementary education major and non-traditional student in the College of Education and Allied Professions.

Submit nominations

Do you know a classified staff member who does an outstanding job at the University? If you think he or she deserves recognition, submit the name for the Classified Staff Outstanding Service Award.

The award will be presented at the annual Classified Staff Convocation in September and the recipient will receive a $400 cash prize and a plaque.

Deadline for nominations is June 30 and can be sent to Outstanding Service Award, P.O. Box 91, University Hall.

Award criteria includes job performance, such as dependability, attendance, cooperation, willingness to serve, innovation, initiative, attitude and ability to give "above and beyond," and the employee's relationship with the University, such as concern, commitment, willingness to give uncompensated time to University activities, willingness to work on committees, making up work time or missed job time, assisting people even when it is not part of the job, positive interaction and the promotion of harmony.

Anyone, including faculty and administrative staff, can nominate a classified employee for the award. The nominee can be any current classified staff member, either permanent full-time or permanent part-time, who has been on the University payroll for 12 continuous months. Someone who is nominated but retires after June 30 is still eligible.

Nomination forms have been sent to all University employees or can be obtained by calling Chris Sexton at 372-7005 or Pam Atchison at 372-7698 or Carol Kreienkamp at 372-2452.

Classified Employment Opportunities

Eligible List

Posting expiration date: 10:30 a.m., Friday, May 19.

5-19-89      Electrician 1
Pay Range 7
Plant operation and maintenance

An examination will be given for the above classification. Candidates will be ranked based on test scores and experience, and an "eligible list" will be established. As vacancies occur, names are referred from the list. Employees may apply and take the examination even if currently in a probationary period.

New Vacancies

Posting expiration date for employees to apply: 10:30 a.m., Friday, May 12.

5-12-1      Secretary 1
Pay Range 26
Interpersonal and Public
Communication

Faculty/staff positions

The following faculty positions are available:

College of Musical Arts: Teacher performer in viola. Contact the search committees (2-2181). Extended deadline: May 15.

Educational Foundations and Inquiry (EDFI): Assistant professor. Contact Trevor Phillips (2-7322). Deadline: June 1.

Technology Systems: Assistant professor of construction management and technology. Contact John Eron (2-7581). Deadline: June 1.

The following administrative positions are available:

Internal Auditing: Director. Contact Annmarie Heldt (2-2558). Deadline: May 25.

Residential Services: Assistant director of small group housing and Greek Life. Deadline: July 15. Also, residence hall manager. Also, residence hall complex coordinator. Also, residence hall director. Deadlines: Aug. 1. For all positions, contact Fayette M. Paulsen, (2-2456). Deadline: May 1.

Datebook

Monday, May 8

National Video Conference, "Hazardous Materials and Waste Management Update," deadline to register for this conference to be held May 10 at Firelands College. To register, call 433-5560, ext. 217.

Wednesday, May 10

National Video Conference, "Hazardous Materials and Waste Management Update," 11 a.m.-5 p.m., East bldg lounge, Firelands College.

WBGU-TV Program, "Art Beat," focuses this week on "The Blues," 5:30 and 11 p.m., Channel 27.

Thursday, May 11

Continuing Education Conference, "Training and Recruiting Volunteers to Work with Older Adults," 9 a.m.-12:15 p.m., Holiday Inn.

Weight Watchers Program, noon-1 p.m., Pheasant Room, University Union. To register, call 372-2236.

Computer Seminar, "Microcomputer Concepts," 1:30-4 p.m., 312 Hayes. For persons who need a basic orientation to IBM personal computers. To register (two days ahead) call 372-2102.

Friday, May 12

WBGU-TV Program, "Viewpoint," Rep. William Thompson discusses landfill legislation, 5:30 p.m., Channel 27.

Saturday, May 13

WBGU-TV Program, "Quilting," Host Judi Warren demonstrates pieced block construction, 3 p.m., Channel 27.

Sunday, May 14

WBGU-TV Program, "Bishop Luers' Swing Choir Invitational 1977," 1 p.m., Channel 27.

For sale

The Center for Academic Options has for sale to other departments a letter quality C. Itoh printer for $175. For more information, call 372-8202.

Awards from the front

Campbell, who has been at Bowling Green since 1966, is active in promoting international education.

Bell, who dances with and advises the University Performing Dancers, is a teacher and consultant for Arts Unlimited Program which recently received the governor's award for arts in education.

Horton, who has held a variety of positions in his Bowling Green career, is the director of Bowling Green's graduate student orientation program. Horton has been active in the Faculty Senate and in the United Way campaign on campus.

Medici from the front

commissioned works of art were unveiled at the gala.

This year's commissions included a hand-colored intaglio print entitled "Neut" by graduate art student David Sapp and a multi-media work on hand-made paper combining poetry and imagery. The multi-media piece, entitled "Derritendo Vidrio," was created by Adrian R. Tio, art, with printer Russell McKnight, poet Jerry Smith and translator Iraida Diaz Tio.

Through its fundraising efforts, the Medici Circle provides scholarships and awards for outstanding students. The organization, which will celebrate its 10th anniversary next year, also funds lectures, workshops, field trips and visiting artists at the University.